

The Eureka Times

12th Edition

6 February 2007

Welcome to the twelveth edition of The Eureka Times.

Well folks, it has been a long time between drinks in so far as editions of this newsletter are concerned but with the distribution of the garratts now complete normal services are slowly being resumed here at Eureka Models.

High on the priority list has been this newsletter and with the long interval since the last edition there is plenty of news regarding current and future projects to cover. There is so much in fact that it will probably take this edition and the next to cover everything but this should not be a problem as the next edition will not be long coming after this one.

The distribution of the garratts almost overwhelmed us here at Eureka Models and we realize that many of our normal activities suffered as a result. One lesson that was learned from the process was that Eureka Models had grown beyond the capacity of one and a half persons to operate on a part-time basis. As a consequence it was decided to introduce more capacity into the system by the employment of a staff member.

A view of the Eureka future.

Welcome Charlotte Lee

In late December, 2006 Charlotte Lee joined us here at the head office of Eureka Models on a temporary basis to help clear the back-log of AD60s. Her enthusiasm and interest in the hobby led to the decision to appoint her on a permanent part-time basis two or three days per week. Her main function will be to keep the paper-work moving (orders and correspondence etc) together with general administrative duties. Charlotte has been on a fairly steep learning curve as far as the hobby goes this past month or so but I was more
